

Location: Anilao, Batangas
Reference: P1

Anilao is just two and a half hours by road from Manila and although regarded as the birthplace of diving in Philippines, many divers are just realising the beauty of Anilao which is now known as macro heaven of the Philippines.

HIGHLIGHTS

Diving in Anilao is mainly amongst soft coral reefs that have rejuvenated after several decades of mindless dynamite fish bombing. Some say the macro in Anilao is only second to Lembeh Strait in Manado which is considered to be the best muck diving in the World.

There are many dive sites here and given the shallowness of water, snorkeling is very popular.

The dive sites are just within a few minutes off San Pablo, Anilao, San Teodoro and around Sombrero island. For pelagic, the Bahura Ligpo and Highway are favorite sites to see schools of chevron barracuda and the occasional Eagle ray.

ACCOMMODATION

A wide range of accommodation is available in and around Anilao and most are simple wooden buildings with fans but airy enough as they face the sea.

BEST SEASON

Generally good conditions all year round; excluding the months of July through to September; the rainy period.

OTHER ACTIVITIES

Bars, billiards and massages are many.

PACKAGE COST

USD 430 ex Manila for divers (6 dives) and USD 300 for non diver inclusive of meals, transfers, Standard Resort accommodation and the company and guidance of a fund GOD leader.
